RE: Special Data Call
Storm of 02/25-26/2010

This latest storm hitting NH with extreme weather has had some significant effects on many property owners and business operations throughout the state. As an insurer writing business in New Hampshire, the Department understands that you have probably been receiving calls, inquiries and claim reports from your insureds as a result of the storm.

In order for the Department to fully understand and quantify the magnitude of insured losses and to help evaluate any uninsured losses resulting from the storm and the effect on New Hampshire citizens and communities, I am directing all insurers licensed by New Hampshire and who write property and casualty insurance, to respond to a special data call. The Department realizes the commitment of insurer resources required to complete a special data call, and as a result is scaling back its reporting requirements from previous extreme weather events like the 2008 ice storm. This data call consists of a single report due 05/15/2010 for all losses evaluated as of 04/30/2010. As with the ice storm data call, the Department is requesting that the claims be grouped by type of insurance, location of the property and size of the loss.

The report and instructions can be found on the Department's website, www.nh.gov/insurance. The report is available as an Excel spreadsheet to facilitate its completion. Questions about the report and the process for submitting the report should be directed to Deb Stone, Assistant P&C Actuary, (603) 271-7973 x258 or deborah.stone@ins.nh.gov.
